For the Fringe Benefits Tax Year Ended 31 March 2022

I _____ declare that residential phone benefits / dedicated data line benefits (delete if not applicable) were provided to me by Ministerial and Parliamentary Services, Department of Finance during the period 1 April 2021 to 31 March 2022.

I also declare that, to the best of my knowledge, the percentage of expenses that were business related was:

• Residential Phone %:

• Dedicated Data Line %:

Note: This declaration should only be completed for residential telephone and/or dedicated data line benefits.

The taxable value of an expense payment fringe benefit may be reduced by the percentage declared by you as 'otherwise deductible'. A benefit is otherwise deductible if the employee would have been entitled to claim an income tax deduction had the employee, rather than the employer, paid for the expense. The business related percentage of expenses may need to be substantiated in the event of an audit by the Australian Taxation Office. Substantiation can include a diary of phone usage or copies of phone bills identifying those calls that were business related.

If the business related percentage is different for residential phone benefits and for dedicated data line benefits, please complete two separate declarations.
