Approach

The framework has been developed through analysis of a range of data and artefacts (including surveys of MOP(S) Act staff and submissions to reviews and leading practice research) that provide insight into the parliamentary workforce, environment, culture and capability requirements. This Framework aligns with government and departmental objectives, as well as recommendations of recent reviews into the parliamentary workplaces. Additionally, the framework has been developed to ensure application of contemporary evidence-based best-practice with an evaluation component of this framework sets out to ensure the framework and it's initiatives adapt to ensure they remain fit for purpose.

Each initiative delivered as part of the framework will have key learning outcomes for participants. An evaluation of each initiative will be built into a broader evaluation of the framework to measure its effectiveness, looking at impact and engagement. Evaluation outcomes will inform the ongoing evolution of the framework and its initiatives to ensure they remain contemporary and effective.

Impact

Engagement

Evaluate data on:

- participation numbers and number of offerings
- accessibility of training
- motivation for participation (i.e. for current or future role)
- volume of consultation with staff (evaluations, consultation panel meetings)
- user satisfaction with platforms and processes (for example, course registration, studies assistance)
- engagement level with professional bodies and networks/groups, education, etc.
